
INTERNATIONAL MONETARY REFORMS

In retrospect and Prospect

I.S. Gulati *

This paper is divided into three parts. In the first part the working of the monetary system that was set up after World War II is reviewed in order to highlight the factors which eventually brought about its collapse. In the second part are taken up the major elements of the new monetary system that is sought to be put in place. The last part concentrates on the major questions which remain unresolved.

* Fellow, Centre for Development Studies,
Trivandrum, Kerala, India.