

FOREWORD

A strong and achieving public service is a necessary condition for a competitively successful nation. The Management and Training Services Division of the Commonwealth Secretariat assists member governments to improve the performance of the public service through action-oriented advisory services, policy analysis and training. This assistance is supported by funds from the Commonwealth Fund for Technical Co-operation (CFTC).

Commonwealth co-operation in public administration is facilitated immeasurably by the strong similarities that exist between all Commonwealth countries in relation to the institutional landscape and the underlying principles and values of a neutral public service. In mapping current and emerging best practices in public service management, the Management and Training Services Division has been able to draw on the most determined, experienced and successful practitioners, managers and policy-makers across the Commonwealth. Their experiences are pointing the way to practical strategies for improvement.

The publication series, Managing the Public Service: Strategies for Improvement, provides the reader with access to the experiences and the successes of elected and appointed officials from across the Commonwealth.

Rethinking Policy Analysis and Management looks at how the problems of policy analysis and management hinder efficiency and proper implementation; how these problems can be tackled in the light of recent advances in policy development and management science; and how solutions can be found that will ensure that the state improves its role in policy development and policy management.

In searching for answers to these questions, it proposes that a research and development effort be undertaken in order to generate organisational behaviour and the institutionalisation of a new policy process paradigm, and offers a practical framework within which policy can be conceptualised, formulated, implemented and evaluated.

The series complements other MTSD publications, particularly the Public Service Country Profile series which provides a country-by-country analysis of current good practices and developments in public service management. Our aim is to provide practical guidance and to encourage critical evaluation. The Public Service Country Profile series sets out the where and the what in public service management. With this new Strategies for Improvement series, I believe we are providing the how.

Michael Gillibrand
Acting Director and Special Adviser
Management and Training Services Division